Tips & Tricks for using City, County, Borough & Township and other Directories

1934
La Crosse,
WI Directory

When You Want to Know:

- where a person lives.
- what his occupation is.
- who lives at a certain number on a street.
- where a street is located.
- the correct spelling of a name.
- the officers of a corporation.
- the partners in a firm.
- the solution to any of scores of problems that pop up unexpectedly to annoy and baffle you.
- you can quickly find the answer in the City Directory.

Question from a friend:

My mother lived in this beautiful New England home in the 1933 - 1935 time frame - raised by her mother - Edith Silvius Hopkins. We are trying to find the street address of their house so we can visit it. Are there census records available that would have that?

What all can you find in city and county directories?

1. Your ancestors and family members:

.Residences, occupations, every adult in their household.

.People with the same surname in the same location, or different spellings!

.Deaths (i.e., woman is now listed as “widow of”).

.Note any abbreviations used, i.e. “r” for resident; “h” for householder.

TO DO: Track them on every available directory in their adult life span, to note any changes.

2. Streets and maps:

.Street names and house numbers can change over time.

.Look for street directories within the city directory. This lists all occupants on a street by house numbers. It may even list the cross streets, so you can locate it on a map.

.Some directories may include maps.

TO DO: Use the address to do a “Google” search and find the building if it still exists!

294 MANHEIM BUSINESS DIRECTORY.

This, for some cause, did not prove to be in accordance with his design, and he subsequently built another one at the corner of Market square and east High street, which, because of its dimensions and the simplicity of the times, was described as a great castle. This building still remains; originally, it was built with Dutch tiles in the fire places, with an antique pulpit in the salon. The walls of this department were decorated with a fine, but apparently coarse kind of German canvas tapestry, interwoven with beautiful designs of German hunting scenes, forests, men on horse-back, dogs, falcon, etc. This tapestry was over one hundred years hanging on these walls, and when taken down, about two years ago, was still in an excellent state of preservation. Baron Steigel laid out the town, and was, in turn, an iron master, glass manufacturer, preacher, and teacher, and died in the latter capacity very poor. On December 24, 1774, a special act was passed for his relief. For a number of years he had been manager of the Elizabeth Iron Works; a stove manufactured at these works was recently sold, which was known to be over one hundred years old. The glass works, of which he was in part proprietor, were located on the corner of Charlotte and Steigel streets, opposite the hardware store of Mr. A. Kline. Mr. J. M. Ensminger, proprietor of the Manheim Sentinel, has in his possession a striped glass powder-horn, a blue glass ball, and a fancy striped salt-cellar manufactured by Baron Steigel, over a hundred years ago.

At THOMAS & MASON'S, LOOK HAYN, PA. THE BEST PLACE TO BUY all kinds of LUMBER.

Mr. J. M. Hahn, cigar manufacturer, has a remarkably fine violin bearing the following inscription: Galpard Duffo Pruzzard Bonaelic Amic 1516, Italy. He has also a latin book published in Germany in 1518.

The southern part of the town seems to have been one vast Indian burying ground, several skulls, bones, etc., having been exhumed at different times. In 1762 Manheim contained but three houses. The first of which, on South Prussian street above Ferdinand, is still standing, presenting a respectable and habitable appearance. The third house in the town was erected by Andrew Bartruff, of whom J. R. Bartruff, carriage manufacturer, Lancaster, Pa., is a descendant. All the industrial interests of Manheim are of the most solid and substantial character, the manufacture of cigars, perhaps, predominating. The inhabitants are frank, enterprising, and remarkably hospitable. There is one bank, several fine churches, a commodious school building, planing mill, flour mills, foundry, and one enterprising newspaper. Population 1,500. The town is surrounded by an agricultural district of unparalleled fertility. General Review

Situated on the Mississippi River, at the confluence of the Black and La Crosse Rivers, with the mighty Father of Waters, the city of La Crosse, Wisconsin, combines every natural advantage open to an inland town, with rare scenic loveliness and a historic past. It is one of the oldest and most famous cities in the Upper Mississippi Valley, with a record in the history of the development of the Northwest that goes back for nearly two centuries. For more than seventy years it has been one of the leading commercial points on the upper waters of the great river.

With three railroads connecting it with a rich agricultural community for hundreds of miles in every direction; with a score of thriving smaller cities tributary; with the newly-revived river traffic carrying freight of all sorts from the great Northwest to the sea at New Orleans, and vice versa, past its doors, La Crosse enjoys a most favorable situation. In this admirable location is found the explanation of the remarkable prosperity enjoyed by the city's 125 different industries, with their annual production of more than $20,-000,000 worth of goods, and the payroll of more than 6,000 contented employees drawing annually upwards of $4,000,000. Commercially, financially, and industrially, La Crosse rates high among the cities of Wisconsin. It enjoys remarkable freedom from civic and industrial strife, and has never known a panic, nor seldom a prolonged business depression, thanks to the conservative policies of its merchants and manufacturers, and the general prosperity of its agricultural environment.

La Crosse lies in the center of the tobacco and dairying districts of western Wisconsin and southern Minnesota. The region about La Crosse has never known a crop failure, for the land is well-watered, and abundant rainfall never fails.

For visitors in search of outdoor beauty and recreation, La Crosse has a lavish welcome in its unique Coulee Region and the far-famed Winneshiek Refuge, of which the city is almost the geographical center and the natural capital. The Coulee Region is unparalleled in the northern United States, being the only considerable area north of the Ohio River that escaped the planing down and levelling of the glaciers during the Ice Age. Consequently, the age-old rocks stand about La Crosse, north, south, east and west, in craggy dignity, divided by deep, winding valleys in a panorama that is reminiscent of the Catskills, although with marked individuality. Through these valleys meander swift trout streams,

. Lancaster City currently: 1843 – 1960 (but not every year!) is available on Ancestry. Some years also have directories for Lancaster County Boroughs (i.e. 1890 Directory has Adamstown, Columbia, Elizabethtown, Lititz, Manheim, Marietta, Mount Joy, Strasburg, Washington); and some years have listings for Lancaster County Townships. Lancaster County currently: 1869 & 1890.

. Clicking on the year of a directory in the search bar will give you a drop-down menu of all directories for that town available on Ancestry. Likewise, clicking on the state or county, will give you access to any state, any county, or any municipality that they have, and you can see what's available.

. Look for actual copies of the original directories in local historical societies and libraries. Some areas have an 1890 City or County Directory which is helpful in locating your ancestors where the 1890 US Census is gone! Lancaster History Collection – listing available on LH.org website. There is also a 1914 Farmers Directory.

. Lots of small towns printed their own directories.

. Look for college alumni directories, old telephone directories, Women's Club directories, school yearbooks (Ancestry has 1900-1999), and ethnic directories for big cities like Chicago at FamilySearch.org –"Search" – "Books" in their Digital Library.

. European directories started in the 1600's. Ancestry has some directories for Canada, Australia, Europe, and even one for Mexico. Their UK collection has directories from the 1600's to the 1900's. There is also a collection of British phone books from 1880-1984, and items such as a seven volume set of the "Directory of Scottish Settlers in North America 1625-1825".
