This is a story a friend of mine sent me. And I happened to have an old photograph of a dragonfly I took at Presque Isle. It's cute and brings me some peace.

As some already know, I recently had another CT scan and blood work and both didn't come back favorable at all. So with that being said I am stopping treatment, the past 3 sets of chemo I had didn't work. I am starting Hospice tomorrow. I am still somewhat mobile, but really sick and in a lot of pain.

Know that I read every texts and messages on here but can't always get back right away. Marty will update things too time to time. Also we have tried everything, this has been a very long 17 months. I appreciate advice as hard as it is but please don't send pill cures or other treatments. We are coming to peace with our decision. I have a lot of family and friends helping right now and I thank you!

Glad to hear Laura's work helped. She did a lot of the work in the last couple years of her life. I think it brought her a measure of comfort. My mother is still living, although her health isn't great. My Uncle Jay moved back to Erie in 2006, after almost 30 yrs in Arizona. Unfortunately he has Alzheimer's now and is in a nursing home. Sometimes he recognizes us, but isn't fully aware of where he is or who we are.
